

We looked at all kinds of RV options for about five years before purchasing our Bowlus Road Chief. Why did we buy? First, the light weight made it possible for us to buy something that would check all of our boxes. It is unbelievable what quality construction, technological advancements, comfort, and true luxury are packed into this 24-foot dream trailer. It handles like a dream on any road. With 85 mph speed limits on Utah's interstates or crossing the bridge at Hoover Dam with 40 to 50 mph cross winds, you absolutely forget it is behind you. I swear that several times driving down the highway, we look in the rear-view mirror and are startled to see that we have a Bowlus behind us. The craftsmanship is superb, bringing together both American and European components - talk about a show-stopper.

We have now taken two major trips. The first was last fall in picturesque Utah, and the second was a 6,600 mile, six week trip to the east coast. The two of us plus our two dogs loved every minute of both trips. We are heading out again soon for a couple of weeks and are planning another trip for two months in late spring. Then next fall, we plan on going from Arizona to Nova Scotia, timing the fall colors of New England.

We can honestly say that we have not had one day of buyer's remorse. We consider everyone at Bowlus as family. Our advice is to go order one today and enjoy this remarkable Road Chief experience.
