

We bought our Road Chief not just to have a luxury trailer, but because only its history, legend, and timeless design could provide the nostalgic escape we were looking for. We wanted to be transported to another place, both mentally and physically.

Our first trip took our family of four three weeks and thousands of miles to the middle of the continent. It would not have been the same without our Road Chief. It sparked conversations and provided a place of respite and reflection. We even enjoyed outdoor showers on a few private, sunny days!

We'd also be remiss to not commend Bowlus on their wonderful support. Every time we had a question they were quick to respond and genuinely happy to help guide us along. We haven't owned a trailer before and they made sure we weren't alone.

Can't wait to head out for another adventure!
